THE CIVIL SERVICE LIFE-BOAT FUND

ESTABLISHED 1866

NINETIETH REPORT

HE Council have pleasure in presenting the Ninetieth Report of the Civil Service Life-Boat Fund.

Subscriptions and donations received during the year ended 31st December, 1961, amounted to £22,590, which is the highest total ever reached apart from that in the record year 1960, when it was exceeded by £457. A number of Departments increased their subscriptions, thus compensating for a few Departments which did not make collections in the year. This splendid result reflects, under present economic conditions, the enthusiasm for the Fund which exists throughout the Civil Service. The Council are grateful for, and derive a deal of encouragement from, their support and they hope that the present level of subscriptions will be maintained, if not improved upon, in the future.

A second payment of £18,000 for the Lizard-Cadgwith life-boat, "The Duke of Cornwall" (Civil Service No. 33), was made to the Institution. This leaves £5,500 to be paid in 1962 to complete the total cost of £39,500.

The highlight of the year was the naming of this new lifeboat by H.R.H. The Duke of Edinburgh on 7th July, 1961. This ceremony took place at the new boathouse in Kilcobben Cove and was attended by a large gathering of spectators, including a considerable number of Civil Servants who had contributed to the cost. The weather was perfect and the arrangements admirable. The occasion will live in the memory of all who were fortunate enough to be present.

The life-boat "St. Andrew" (Civil Service No. 10), previously stationed at Whitehills, Banff, and placed on reserve for a short period, has been permanently stationed at Girvan on the Clyde since July 1961.

There are now eleven Civil Service boats on stations in constant service. The Secretary regularly receives from the Institution the reports of all the services undertaken by our life-boats. These reports show the wide variety of rescue work done by these boats, often under the worst possible conditions. It is easy to read between the lines of their terse and seaman-like reports, and to imagine the dangers and the difficulties, not to speak of the extreme discomforts, faced by the crews of our boats. The Council wishes to place on record their profound admiration and gratitude to all those men who have served in the Civil Service life-boats.

We are especially proud of the part taken by the "Charles Dibdin" (Civil Service No. 32) when the East Goodwin Lightship broke adrift in a gale on 12th November. Information was first received at 21.50 G.M.T. from the Coastguard at Deal that the East Goodwin Lightship had broken adrift from her moorings and was drifting south. The "Charles Dibdin" was launched at Walmer and by 23.00 was alongside the lightvessel, which had lost her anchor and had drifted in heavy seas to within three miles of the South Goodwin Lightvessel. Her position was precarious in the extreme. Tremendous seas were running, she had no engine, and thus there was the ever-present danger of her getting broadside on to the sea and capsizing. However, by very skilful seamanship the crew eventually managed to get a spare anchor out.

The "Charles Dibdin" had a long, hazardous vigil standing by the lightship in case at any time it became necessary for the crew to abandon ship. The life-boat stood by initially for 17 hours.

The coxswain of the Walmer boat, Mr. E. Upton, reported that the boat nearly capsized at one time, when a particularly heavy sea washed right over her. The bowman, Mr. G. Baker, was knocked unconscious and the mechanic, Mr. P. Cavell, reported that it was the only time he could recall when it had been necessary for a life-boat to use a sea anchor. Dover life-boat took over the vigil late on Monday for a long spell, and was relieved on Tuesday again by the Walmer life-boat, which was later relieved by Ramsgate life-boat.

This long vigil was necessary as the crew refused to abandon ship and were determined to ride out the gales if they could, until the Trinity House ship, " Vestal", arrived from Harwich to tow her into smooth waters . This eventually was done. Coxswain E. Upton retires early in 1962 after 16 years with the Life-boat Service.

The Council desire to thank all representatives, collectors and contributors for their valuable help and the time that they have so readily given to the Fund.

Signed on behalf of the Council.

ERIC A. SEAL, Chairman.

THE CIVIL SERVICE BENEVOLENT FUND

The Civil Service Benevolent Fund is a fund which is maintained by non-industrial civil servants of all grades to help civil servants and their dependants in need.

It gives financial grants or continuing allowances in cases of need :

- To widows and other dependants of civil servants who die in harness;
- To widows living alone, and other dependants, of pensioned civil servants who die in retirement if there are no adult children able to help;
- To civil servants on sick leave without pay, or on reduced pay;
- To civil servants prematurely retired because of sickness;
- For the completion of the education or the specialist training of fatherless children;
- To serving or retired civil servants who suffer unforeseen misfortunes causing financial distress.

It also provides :

- For the care of retired civil servants or the aged dependants of serving civil servants in homes for old people needing care and attention ;
- For the education in excellent boarding schools of children who have lost their fathers.

More than £1,500,000 has been given in help to civil servants and their dependants since the Fund's re-organization in 1947.

WILL YOU HELP this great work? You can do so by completing a form authorizing regular deductions of only a few pence each week from your pay. Forms can be obtained from the Fund's local agents or direct from The Civil Service Benevolent Fund, Abbey House, 2 Victoria Street, LONDON, S.W.1.

TO CONSULT YOUR OWN SOCIETY THE CIVIL SERVICE INSURANCE SOCIETY

It was founded in 1890 by civil servants and has been managed by civil servants ever since ; it is officially recognised and there are two nominees of the National Staff Side on the Committee of Management, which consists of civil servants appointed by the different Government Departments. It provides life assurance and every kind of ordinary Insurance at specially reduced premiums negotiated for the civil service through the Society.

It has two associated Societies :-

The Civil Servants' Annuities Assurance Society

provides annuities for widows and dependants ; it allocates all its surplus to the benefit of its members ; and an investment In one of Its annuities Is a surprisingly profitable way of providing for dependants or for one's own future. This Society will also make loans to civil servants on the security of a life assurance policy taken out with any recognised Insurance Company.

The Civil Service Provident Society will pay to a nominee, on the death of the assured, an amount up to £200 on proof of death, without the formality of probate, for a very modest premium.

All premiums for life assurance are deductible from salary without any charge.

Every policy Indirectly supports THE CIVIL SERVICE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS FUND which asslsts the dependants of policy-holders who are In need.

There are Honorary Representatives In all the larger offices.

The Secretary of these Societies is :
